

Poggy Indra Aditya, often called Poggy, was born in Yogyakarta on March 24, 1983, where he attended elementary school through college in his hometown. while conducting his lecture he also worked to add experience, ranging from making computer hardware stores with his friends, working in campus units, and working in one of Indonesia's leading subsidiaries for a project in the city of Surakarta.

After completing his degree in Informatics Engineering, the father of two sons worked for a medical record college campus in Karanganyar City (close to Surakarta city), he became a lecturer although relatively short, less than a year. until finally he was accepted to work at Dr. Moewardi General Hospital in 2011 until now.

Starting from his early work at the hospital he is in charge of supporting Hospital Information Systems and is responsible for Web hospital systems and multimedia devices. for teleconference or telemedicine at the hospital, Poggy is tasked with preparing the equipment and operating it.